SHOSHONE-BANNOCK CASINO HOTEL CHEF TEACHES TRADITIONAL COOKING CLASS IN SALT LAKE CITY

FORT HALL, IDAHO – The Shoshone-Bannock Casino Hotel is pleased to announce that our esteemed chefs, Lloyd George, and Executive Chef Jerome Edmo were invited to the Urban Indian Center in Salt Lake City, Utah to serve a Native American themed meal on August 3rd and to teach a hands-on cooking class on August 5th.

Le Cordon Bleu Certified, Chef George was asked to represent the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes due to being a tribal member and having over two decades of experience in the Food & Beverage industry. Chef George has experienced working in an externship at Tulalip Resort and Casino in Washington state, Skinny Fats in Las Vegas, and aided in opening Italian Graffiti in Salt Lake City. He also just completed a Culinary Institute of America Program in New York as one of 16 chefs chosen in the entire country for the program. The outlets at the Shoshone-Bannock Casino Hotel can attribute their menus to Lloyd, who created the options seen on the property.

The Urban Indian Center's dinner on August 3rd served 400 meals and featured three sisters salad, and Açaí bowls. The hands-on cooking class on August 5th featured a modern spin on Buffalo stew with a Smoked Cedar Buffalo Corn Chowder, and Traditional Bannock Bread. Chefs George and Edmo say they appreciated the opportunity to "reconnect people with traditional foods leaning more towards health and plant-based options."

Shoshone-Bannock Casino Hotel is home to an 85 thousand-square-foot gaming operation, 156 hotel rooms, the largest ballroom in the region at 15 thousand square feet, full-service Cedar Spa, six food and beverage outlets, and High Stakes Bingo Hall.

The Shoshone-Bannock Tribes owns and operates three gaming properties, including the Shoshone-Bannock Casino Hotel, Sage Hill Casino and Travel Center, and Bannock Peak Casino and Truck Stop. The Economic Growth Plan continues to evolve for the health and benefit of the Tribal membership and the Eastern Idaho Region.
